1.1 Overview of EIT RawMaterials

EIT RawMaterials is a ‘Knowledge and Innovation Communities’ (KICs) created by the European Institute of Innovation and Technology (EIT), aimed at promoting innovation in the raw materials sector across Europe. Established in 2015, EIT RawMaterials works to secure the sustainable supply of raw materials to the European industry by driving innovation, education, and entrepreneurship along the entire raw materials value chain.

We are a knowledge-driven business and a catalyst for industrial progress. Our offerings leverage our expertise and that of our network – the world’s largest network in the raw [and advanced] materials sector – which includes companies at every stage of evolution, from start-ups to market leaders, along with leading international universities, research organisations, and top experts and future talent from the sector.

Our activities span from mining and mineral processing to material recycling and substitution, focusing on increasing resource efficiency and fostering a circular economy.

We inform policy, apply knowledge, accelerate innovation, create opportunity, and unlock commercial value – for our partners and customers throughout the raw materials value chain to develop the raw materials sector as a strategic strength and foundation for a secure, sustainable future for Europe.

Our offerings are designed to help our partners and industry to be part of Europe’s strategic agenda to ensure supply chain security and make the ‘Green New Deal’ a reality that benefits the people of Europe and partner nations.

1.2 About CRM-Facility Project

The CRM Facility project, initiated in October 2024 by European Commission, aims at diversifying Europe’s raw materials supplies and reduce dependencies. Coordinated by EIT RawMaterials, the project aims at strengthening global partnerships and developing international projects to build sustainable and resilient CRM value chains.

The European Union (EU) is mostly dependent on the imports of critical raw materials (CRMs) from non-EU countries. The dependence has been increased by recent technological shifts such as EVs, energy production, aeronautics, robotics and defense all rely on stable supplies of CRMs¹.

Because of mounting pressure of securing safe and resilient CRM supply chains and the growing threat of increasing dependence on single or few CRM supplier nations, the EU has set up and implemented the Critical Raw Material Act (CRMA)¹. The Act requires that by 2030, the EU must source no more than 65% of any strategic and critical raw material from a single non-EU country, ensuring diversified imports at all processing stages.

For this reason, the EU has established several partnerships with resource-rich countries in order to provide a consolidated set of political, financial, economic and development tools with the goal to connect CRM value chains between CRM suppliers in non-EU countries and European industry, increasing the diversity of supply.

2 SCOPE OF WORK

2.1 General Objectives

Investment in CRM projects in Greenland is currently constrained by a range of market failures and sub-optimal investment conditions across the project life-cycle, from early-stage project development to construction, operation, refinement and final off take. In accordance with Articles 34 and 212 of the EU Financial Regulation, any future EU financial instrument must be based on an ex-ante evaluation assessing the rationale, objectives, options, risks, and expected impacts of EU intervention.

Analytical work in this area provided an initial analytical basis on Greenland's CRM endowment² and strategic relevance. The present assignment shall build on this and other relevant existing analyses.

The primary users of the ex-ante assessment will include relevant Commission services. This assignment aims to deliver a comprehensive ex-ante assessment that will guide the design of future EU financial instruments to support CRM projects in Greenland over the coming years, starting in 2026.

2.2 Detailed Scope of Work

Please refer to the Term of Reference in Annex 1 for detailed description of the work.

2.3 Deliverables

Details on the deliverables are also described in the Term of Reference in Annex 1, section 4.

Deliverable timeline is as follows:

- First full draft report submitted for review to EU Commission by 17 April 2026.

² Review of the critical raw material resource potential in Greenland (2023)

The Commission shall provide feedback by 24 April 2026.

- Final report shall be delivered to EU Commission by 30 April 2026
